

THE EUROPEAN UNION ASSOCIATION
IN THE UNITED STATES AND AT THE UNITED NATIONS

Global Pandemic Impact on Sustainability and Higher Education - Virtual Webinar Event

Summary

The current global pandemic has impacted all aspects of human life including the way learning institutions work, operate and cooperate. In this virtual webinar event, our distinguished panelists will share their experience and perspective on this impact including the broader implications on sustainability.

We look forward to an informative event and welcome you to join us.

How to attend

Date: October 7th 2021

Time: 12pm-1:45pm U.S. Eastern Standard Time.

Format: Zoom Webinar. Link to join:

<https://zoom.us/j/91485534460?pwd=WCs0ZnhoKzg1d0JUdkpJTWluL2pJQT09>

Passcode: 18516

There will be a Q&A session to conclude the event in which attendees are encouraged to present their questions to the panelists.

Panelists

Katrin Gebhard

Higher Education Attaché, Cultural Services
French Embassy in the United States

Peter Dobers

Södertörn University, Stockholm (Sweden)
Professor in Business Studies/Sustainable Development and Co-Creation
President of the International Sustainable Development Research Society
www.isdrs.org

Pauline Deutz

University of Hull, Yorkshire (United Kingdom)
Faculty of Science and Engineering
Department of Geography, Geology and Environment
Former President of the ISDRS

David R. Perkins

Assistant Professor, Missouri State University (United States)
Faculty Department of Geography, Geology and Planning
Teaching Economic Geography, Sustainable Geotourism and Sustainability
Co-chair for the International Society of Biometeorology's Commission on Climate, Tourism and Recreation

---

*** This event will be recorded and distributed on the EU Association website, social media channels and NGOs network. It will also be shared with networks in association with the International Sustainable Development Research Society (ISDRS) and UN partner offices.